

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS
END SEASON WITH DOUBLE VICTORY

Boys' Quintette Defeats New Jersey Five by Score of 22 to 13

GIRLS ALSO VICTORS

Take Opposing Five Into Camp by Score of 34 to 17

By T. M. Jaro

Rain failed to hinder a crowd from packing the high school gym last night to see the Bristol High boys' and girls' basketball teams close their season with victories over the New Jersey Institute for Deaf. The boys won 22 to 13, while the girls upset the Mutes girls 34 to 17.

The boys' game was very fast, Bristol using a man-for-man defense during most of the game. This defense worked splendidly, only five field goals being garnered. The Mutes were shut out of field goals in the third quarter.

Zerizzena opened the scoring of the game for the Mutes and fields were quickly made by Osmora and Koehler, giving the Jersey team a 6 point lead before Bristol could get going. DeRisi started Bristol's scoring by a long field shot. Opydke shot a foul, making the score 6-3. Strumfels intercepted a Mute pass and scored a two-pointer. Spadacino tied the work by making good a foul shot. Wright and Strumfels scored field goals in the latter part of the half giving Bristol a 10-6 lead which was never relinquished.

Wright opened the second half, scoring with a foul shot and Strumfels shook the cords with another two-pointer. Czubik scored a foul for the Jerseyites. Spadacino and Opydke added two points to Bristol's total via the foul route, ending Bristol's scoring for the third quarter with 15 points. Newman brought the Mutes' total to 9 by making two free shots. Koehler scored a field goal for the Mutes. This was the first field goal for the Jersey team since the opening minutes of the game. Spadacino scored a field and a foul goal, bringing the local score to 18. Strumfels added two more by a field goal. As Wright scored a foul shot Coach Townsend put in the second team. This squad put up a strong defense and held the Mutes scoreless. J. Spadacino scored a foul point. The third team and fourth team saw action in the game and had one field goal scored upon them.

Strumfels, playing his last basketball game for Bristol High was high scorer with four field shots.

Captain Opydke, another who will be lost next season, played a wonderful passing game.

DeRisi and Spadacino were well alert on the defense while the playing of Wright is well to be mentioned.

Besides the two-above mentioned, Schiffer, Wankle and Buck will be members of the Alma Mater next year. So the Cardinal and Gray suits will be hung up with the record of 15 wins and 5 reverses, a record that will long live in Bristol High.

Coach Mary Fine's girls' squad won their fourteenth victory of the season when they gave the Mutes a lesson—34-17.

McFadden found her eye last night and scored ten field goals and four fouls for a total of 24 points. Rockhill, her side mate, scored ten points.

Randolph and Strumfels showed some real stuff at their position, the ball seldom got by them.

Giagnacova and Praul played their usual steady game and much can be said to the guard work of these two athletes. All season the pair has worked consistently and has produced a girls' defense that will take many years before it can be equalled. Praul graduates this fall.

Harrison and Pierce, who watched the game from the sidelines; Davis and Bell, will also graduate this fall.

Gnini and Corello were best for the Mutes who showed a fine fighting spirit. The girls put their suits away.

MYSTIFIES AUTHORITIES

Pistol Cracks and Man Is Found on Floor Unwounded

HE WAS UNCONSCIOUS

Found unconscious on the floor of the bath room of his residence on New York avenue, Croydon, yesterday afternoon, following the hearing of the crack of a pistol by a friend, the proprietor of Harris' restaurant was discovered to be without a pistol wound.

Constable Thomas Crawford, who was summoned, is trying to unravel the mystery and to learn the true story of the case, which appears most mysterious from all angles.

Joseph Kent, Croydon, who for a time was employed as assistant baggage agent at the Bristol station of the P. R. R., was the individual to first make known the details of the affair.

Kent telephoned for Constable Crawford and when the officer reached the scene told him that William Harris was in the bath room where he had shot himself. Crawford went to the bath room and found Harris on the floor in what he states was an unconscious condition. "I turned Harris over," Crawford says, and found a .38 old fashioned pistol under his right hand. So far as I could see the man was not injured. I took him to the Harriman Hospital and an examination there failed to reveal any bullet wound."

Crawford says that upon further investigation he found that the bullet had gone through the ceiling of the bath room and lodged in a rafter. It is Crawford's theory that Harris might have contemplated suicide; stood in front of a mirror and pointing the pistol in what he thought was the right direction, failed to take into account the fact that he was getting the opposite reflection in the mirror and instead of having the gun aimed at himself it was pointed in the other direction. What created the unconscious condition has not as yet been developed.

Harris is about 35 years of age, married but there are no children. He does not enjoy the best of health and operates a small restaurant on New York avenue, Croydon. His wife is employed in Philadelphia and commutes daily. She was not advised of the incident until she arrived home last night. She then went to the hospital to see her husband.

Kent's story of the affair is that he and Harris had been playing checkers during the afternoon. Harris got up from the table and went to the bath room. "I didn't realize that it was the report of a pistol when I heard the noise in the room," says Kent. "But I heard 'Bill' fall to the floor. I went and looked and when I saw him there I thought that I had better call someone and so telephoned to Crawford. 'Bill' had just waited on a customer a few minutes previously."

It is Kent's contention that Harris, not being in the best of health, grieved over the recent death of a niece in Philadelphia, to whom he appeared to be devoted. The niece was the daughter of Mrs. Harris' brother. She was buried Wednesday. The child was a cripple, it is said, and Harris had grown to be very fond of her, not having any children of his own.

RAREST FLOWERS WILL BE AT PHILA. SHOW

Miniature Models of Gardens Are Bound To Attract

HOME-GROWN BLOOMS

The potted flowers that mother grew on the window sill in the dining room this Winter will have a chance to win a prize in the Philadelphia Flower Show next week.

Although the loveliest and the rarest flowers that lavish nature can produce will fill the vast exhibition hall of the Commercial Museum, Thirty-fourth Street below Spruce, Philadelphia, with marvelous beauty and fragrance during the week of March 19 to 24, there will be a space for home grown plants exhibited by women.

The Garden Clubs of cities and towns within a day's journey of Philadelphia will also have entries in special classes, which include competitions for the design and contents of gardens. School-children gardeners will also compete.

Potted plants, bulbs, vines and bushes grown by women in their homes are to be given prizes. The plants will be both blooming and non-blooming varieties.

Prizes for arrangement of plants in the window of a room will be given, for a floral decoration of a dining table and for a breakfast table on a porch or terrace. Miniature models of gardens or other plants and flower arrangements will receive prizes.

These special classes for women always attract many exhibitors. The Garden Clubs in the communities roundabout Philadelphia take keen interest in them and prompt exhibits.

The associations of florists in the counties throughout Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware will also compete in special classes, with exhibits entered by each Association, Philadelphia County, however, being barred from this class.

The entries in the Show represent the best efforts of all kinds of growers of flowers—from the woman with a single plant she has grown to the priceless and rare collections from the immense conservatories of the estates of the wealthy. Those who grow flowers as a commercial venture are also exhibitors, and so are floriculturalists.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

(Quakertown Free Press)

BILLBOARDS have always been an eyesore to us in this town. Repeatedly have we advocated their banishment. Now, we believe, definite steps have been or are being taken to have them forever and ever removed from the confines of this fair community.

The "skeleton" at Third street near Broad was the "Waterloo" for this gross invasion in this town. Council threw the proverbial wrench into the gears soon after the framework was erected. The board was never completed. Nor will it be.

It was a fine thing that Councilman did when he made the motion to abolish all billboards in town—including the over-hanging pavement signs, some few (or shall we say many) of which remain and make their presence known by creaking every time the wind blows.

The latter recommendation may not be approved by some, but reasoning the thing out, wouldn't it be better to have them go the way of the billboard?

Those old tin awnings, so popular in years gone by, are gradually passing away, thanks greatly to rust and decay, and better by their having gone!

The time is rapidly approaching when the "Regional Planning Movement" will reach into this and other neighboring rural communities, and wherever regional planning enters, "eyesores" are sure to leave.

Today merchants want natural light in their stores. The old pavement roofs made dingy the places of business. And their successors the drop awnings are ample protection against the damaging rays of the sun on window displays, yet do not rob the store of daylight.

So, you see, there is a sort of evolution. There was a time when a store was not a store unless it had that tin "shoot" extending to the curbline. That idea is no more.

It will be the same with those overhead signs. Neat window lettering is the modern way of designating one's place of business.

And window lettering doesn't creak every time the wind blows. Nor is there any danger of it falling down on pedestrians.

Modern style and safety-first are two factors that enter into this idea of sign-removal, and the third is the added effect of beauty which it will have on our streets.

Then the next thing is to try and get rid of the "forest of poles" and the "wire entanglements."

And, finally, boost the "White Way!"

EPWORTH LEAGUE GROUP
IN SESSION AT TREVOSE

Rev. Ernest Bawden, Pastor of Cookman Church, Phila., Is the Speaker

SCOTTSVILLE'S BANNER

By Staff Correspondent:

TREVOSE, Mar. 17.—"There is something in the young people that responds to the heroic," said the Rev. Ernest Bawden, pastor of the Cookman M. E. Church, Philadelphia, as he spoke to the Bristol Group, Epworth League, here last evening.

The bi-monthly meeting took place in the Methodist Church and the seats and aisles of the auditorium were crowded with eager young folks, who thoroughly enjoyed the message regarding real heroes.

"Our ideals and ideas of the heroic change as we grow in years," said the speaker. "It's not a question of the size or birth of a man, but a question of the heart qualities that counts concerning the heroic." He then gave a number of examples of those who had showed their splendid qualities along this line and superb nature in what are usually regarded the smaller things of life, adding that "some of the greatest heroes and heroines are those who are unsung."

He advised that the leaguers stand

LENTEN SERVICES ARE DRAWING MANY FOLKS

Some Sermons Are Based Upon Pre-Easter Events

SUBJECTS ANNOUNCED

During the Lenten season, as Easter-tide draws nearer, the members of the clergy in and about Bristol are giving to the members of their congregations sermons that are of great help. Many of them are being based upon pre-Easter subjects, events that lead up to the Crucifixion and the rise of the Christ.

Preparation is being made by the Rev. Howard L. Zepp on his two sermons for Sunday, March 18th. The titles of them are "The Costly and the Free," and "Used and Unused Opportunities." The former will be delivered at the morning service at 11 o'clock, and the latter at 7:45 o'clock. Sunday school at this church will be at 10 o'clock.

On Monday evening the organization of the young people's society will take place at 8 o'clock; while on Wednesday the mid-week service will be led by the unknown leader. The one in charge will take as the topic, "Why go to church?" (Psa. 84:1-12.)

"Christ, the Only Foundation" is the theme prepared for Sunday morning at 10:30 by the Rev. John Ellery, of the Methodist Church. This pastor's work for the evening will be upon "The Agnostic Disciple." The meeting at night will commence at 7:45 o'clock. Sunday School session will be at 2:15, with classes for all ages. Epworth League service will be at 6:45.

On Wednesday, James Guy will lead the prayer and praise service, commencing at 8 o'clock.

The preaching service in the Tullytown Christian Church will be in the evening at 7:45 instead of the morning at 11 o'clock. The Rev. William Young will preach. Sunday School will be held at 10:30 a. m. The regular weekly prayer meeting will be held on Wednesday evening at 7:45.

The Sunday School of the Tullytown M. E. Church will be held at 2:30 p. m. The evening service for worship will be held at 7:30 o'clock. The pastor, the Rev. Francis J. S. Morrow, will preach. There will be special music and singing at this service.

For the last Sunday in the conference year of the Methodist Church the pastor of the Croydon Community M. E. Church has selected two most interesting topics. The first one at 10:30 will be "The Way To Obtain A Blessing of God," while the one in the evening at 7:45 will be "Christ Challenges the World To Make An Honest

KILLARNEY NIGHT CLUB
GOES OVER BIG HERE

First Performance Makes A Decided Hit With Audience

TO REPEAT IT TONIGHT

"The Killarney Night Club," the novelty minstrel, which opened last night in St. Mark's school hall, was enthusiastically received by the large crowd which filled the auditorium. It lived up to and even surpassed all advance notices.

In the first number on the evening's program Rita Barnfield and Mary McCahan danced their way right into the hearts of the audience in a jig entitled "The Irish Washerwomen." This was followed by a cute little musical playlet, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," in which Joe Armstrong and little Mary Joe McGee scored a decided hit. In the chorus for this number were: Marie McGonigle, Grace Murphy, Catherine Sullivan, Catherine Armstrong, Gertrude Snyder, Helen Sullivan, Eleanor McIlwaine, Doris Connor, Blanche Dugan, Catherine Bue, Susan McClafferty, Margaret Oliver, Eileen McGonigle, Mary Bagley, Jane McElroy, Marie Lippincott, Ruth Daniels, Alice Keating, Frances Waters, Marie Swank, Margaret Duffy, Eleanor Mulligan, Ruth Blanche, Maurice Mulligan, Francis Nealls, Helen Weber, Grace Curran, Margaret Collier, Marie Ennis and Mary Finan.

Then came the long looked for "Night Club." This novelty minstrel went over so big in its entirety that it would be difficult to pick out anyone in particular for special merit. In this performance replete with beautiful singing and witty jokes and specialties, there will stand out in the memory of those who were present, the splendid rendition of "In the Garden of My Heart" by Mary Madden, then Charley Cullen and a beautiful whistling chorus in "Mary Ann," then Joseph Waugh in that old favorite, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling;" this was followed by "Among My Souvenirs" by "Smiling" Edward Connors, a local favorite. At this point Gertrude Johnson introduced herself in several character sketches that brought round after round of applause. "Clet" Hoffman sang a song composed (so he said) by a gentleman more or less prominent in the parish. Next on the programme appeared "Jimmie" Sackville in the "Wobbly Walk." He was assisted in this by Mary Conley's dancing chorus (Grace Blanche, Harriet Lippincott, Eleanor Keating and Catherine Blanche) who were forced to acknowledge several encores.

Miss Alice Rafferty then rendered that beautiful old ballad, "Mother Machree." The scenic effect produced here with Miss Mary McGee, of Linden street, in an inspiring pantomime of "Mother" combined with the singing of Miss Rafferty and the chorus will long be remembered. Doctor Smith then rendered "The Song is Ended" and as encores several parodies that went over great. Miss Margaret White was then called upon and with her beautiful voice touched the hearts of all in "That Old Irish Mother of Mine." "Kitty O'Toole" was offered by Mr. Percy G. Ford, who received a well-merited ovation. The last number on the program was the "Ice Cream" song by William Gallagher, this number was enhanced by the assistance of the dancing chorus and "Gert" Johnson, who assisted Mr. Gallagher, in putting over a nifty little sketch. The closing chorus was rendered by

Get Stills, Liquor In Raid On Farmhouse

The supply of "apple-jack" is said to have been considerably curtailed by the raiding and confiscation yesterday of a large still on the farm of John Stackhouse, near Yardley. Included in the goods reported found were 157 gallons of apple-jack, three 40-gallon stills, 100 gallons of mash, two sets of coils and numerous accessories for distilling.

The raid was conducted shortly after noon by Constables Andrew Thompson and Abner Herbert, of Morrisville, and George Watson, of Fallsington.

Stackhouse was later arraigned before Justice of the Peace Neal Nolan, of Morrisville, and released under $5,000 bail to await the action of the next term of Bucks County Criminal Court at Doylestown. He was charged with manufacture and possession of liquor.

When the officers entered Stackhouse's farmhouse, on the Yardley-Newtown Road, one mile above the former place, they found two of the stills in operation. The liquor was contained in six 25-gallon barrels and seven one-gallon jugs. After samples were taken, the applejack and stills were removed to Doylestown and delivered to Sheriff T. Hart Ross.

LETTER WRITING A LOST ART

This is the day of secretaries. In the larger cities a lady receives as many as three announcements in one mail from "fully equipped," "socially experienced" individuals or companies offering to take her social correspondence off her hands. Some agree to call every morning to take dictation.

The uninformed wonder how much equipment and experience enters into the calculations of these professionals, if they think that correspondence can be conducted through a third person. Business, of course, philanthropy and formal invitations; but are any of these correspondence?

In the days of public scribes letters were written to convey news, illness, marriage, and inheritance were, and still are, expressed for the illiterate at a price. Correspondence—that is, communication at a distance between two people who wish they might be talking together—used to be limited to the fortunate in education and wealth. But for just about a century the world has known cheap postage and general education.

Now that every one may write, few want to. Postcards move across the country carrying a minimum of words and a maximum of pictures.

Letter writing is fast becoming a lost art. Sometimes one doubts if this generation will leave behind any correspondence worthy to be saved for posterity. Commercial secretaries and postcards will not duplicate the letters of Swift and Vanessa, Mme. de Sevigne and the Plinys.

PROSPERITY'S PULMOTOR

Advertising is in a state of evolution, if not of revolution. Like business, of which it is an invaluable ally, it is ever undergoing change and showing miraculous growth.

One phase of the present evolution in advertising which every newspaper reader must have noted is the increasing use national advertisers are making of the newspaper as an advertising medium.

Only a few years ago the only national advertisers using newspaper advertising space extensively were the makers of home remedies and toilet articles. Long ago these manufacturers learned the value of newspaper advertising and put that knowledge to practical and profitable use. An amazing change has been wrought in a few years.

Last year national advertisers distributed $225,000,000 among daily and weekly newspapers of the United States. It must have been a paying investment for many of them have allowed more for newspaper advertising in their 1928 budgets.

Fifty-seven automobile manufacturers bought $33,505,000 worth of newspaper space last year. Why it was that these concerns were so slow to adopt newspaper advertising to the virtual exclusion of other kinds has never been explained. As automobile makers are progressive in other business matters, it may be they were prejudiced against the newspaper because it would not reproduce their new models in their contrasting colors.

National advertisers of food products spent $24,045,000 for newspaper advertising last year and fourteen tobacco concerns used $15,260,000 worth of space.

Were it not for these advertisers and the advertising of local business, readers would be paying several times two cents for their newspapers.
